

Leslie Doyle has recently been hired to serve St. Aloysius as the Director of Children Formation. Leslie has fostered her love of educating young children with over a decade of elementary classroom experience and educational leadership roles within East Baton Rouge public schools. Leslie served as the Early Childhood Strategy Chief of Staff and Director of Academics at the Louisiana Department of Education (LDOE) from February 2019 until November 2022. In that role she oversaw innovative initiatives with the goal of increasing kindergarten readiness around the state. This included leading a review of Louisiana's early learning and development standards and designing an instructional support strategy connecting high-quality interactions, curriculum content, assessment, and child development. Since leaving the LDOE, Leslie has been providing early childhood educational consulting through partnerships with national and regional organizations to address a wide spectrum of educational needs supporting states, districts, and schools.

While at St. Aloysius, Leslie has served on various ministries and committees, such as the Parish School of Religion, St. Joseph's Altar Committee, Children's Church, Parent Education Committee, Walking with Purpose, and ACTS formation teams. Leslie states, "These ministries have strengthened my calling to serve the Lord through the talents that he has bestowed upon me."

Leslie received a Master's in Curriculum and Instruction with a focus on early literacy from Louisiana State University. She lives in Prairieville, Louisiana with her husband Christopher and her sons Hollis and Fletcher.
